Preparing students to play key roles in a revolutionary scientific field that is propelling medical research into a new era of discovery