Choosing a thesis lab is an important decision that will affect the direction of your graduate research and your academic success – even your ultimate career choices.

A panel of senior students will share their insights and provide advice for selecting a rotation and thesis lab. Learn about factors that are often overlooked. Gain strategies for using your rotation experiences to their fullest. You’ll come away with a list of questions to ask the PI and other lab members before joining a lab.

Event sponsored by Associated Students of the Graduate Division, First Generation Support Services, the Graduate Division, Student Life, and the Office of Career and Professional Development.

Pizza and beverages will be provided to those who RSVP online at: choosingathesislab2015.eventbrite.com
